FRONT COVER BY MICHAIL “LEAVING LAS ... BRUSSELS”

CURATED PHOTOGRAPHS

SELECTED FROM THE SCP/BULB FB AND IG STREAMS

“Brussels” she said one day in the 80’s and I rolled my eyes. Leaving Paris for Brussels?! Where is that anyway? In the Netherlands, in Holland or in the Dutch country? None of the above, she murmured.

Thing is that a couple of years later I was there and I was fine. Italian chicks, white nights, orange cars, huge parks and heavy rain. It was unavoidable to go back for good after two “fruitful” years in the Greek Army. Fruitful and full of junk (junk food, junk friends, junk girlfriends).

Today, 30 years later, I need to browse those visual memories, to extract and trash any subjective elements, and share them to make them bits of the imaginary, as if they didn’t touch me at all. “ It’s the first day of the rest of my life! ”

THE INTERVIEWS

YIANNIS YIASARIS

CONDUCTED BY VICKY MARKOLEFA

“I made it through a very tough phase in my life thanks to photography”

VM: You moved to Australia years back, where your photographic journey began. What inspired you then and what spurs your interest today?

YY: Despite having lived in Australia for two decades, my photography journey began ten years ago in Greece, in an isolated village in the mountains, where a camera and a forgotten book of street photography fell into my hands completely by chance. Since that day, I've tried to see the daily life around me as small frames in an endless movie, and to capture the frames that have piqued my interest

THE STORIES

LEAVING LAS ... BRUSSELS (PT. 1)

BY MICHAEL

Today, 30 years later, I need to browse those visual memories, to extract and trash any subjective elements, and share them to make them bits of the imaginary, as if they didn't touch me at all.

It's the first day of the rest of my life.
