CURATED PHOTOGRAPHS

SELECTED FROM THE SCP/BULB FB AND IG STREAMS

The present issue seems dystopic but it is only too normal after all the tragedies around us. Wildfires, refugees drowning, domestic violence, femicides, hooligan killings, intimidation and aggressions, violation of public space ...

43 degrees are now a normality, people at the edge of their forces become wounded fierce animals, we fight, we watch fighting, we are showing our teeth to the fellow citizens. We still get together against oppression and injustice, but quickly we turn against each other, if not giving up too easy. And this apathy is the greatest of all tragedies.

The photographer is an observer by excellence. But the time has come to go beyond the fallacy that a photographer should not intervene under any circumstances. The time has come to put down the camera and provide relief, help escape the wildfire, stop the abuser, mobilize the frightened ... in other words, save the "little Sudanese girl from the vulture".

BLUE SKY

Last July a thoughtful photographer and a good friend of our editors passed away. Here are some of his photographs selected by Marius along with a short text of Dragos about Dragos:

"The world I live in is a fractured, distraught and bewildered chaos from which I'm trying to rekindle a sense of order through the expression of form, colour and emotion."

Photos selected by Marius Petrescu
